A cataclysm of atomic proportions

SUMMARY

In 1908 an explosion of atomic dimensions destroyed the valley of Tunguska in Siberia in strange circumstances. Everything within a 5000 km radius was completely decimated, thereby leaving a landscape that appeared apocalyptic. "Someone" or "something" caused this horrifying blast 500 times greater than the atomic bomb of Hiroshima. Some have talked of a meteorite, but the circumstances that surrounded the event are too confusing for such a conclusion.

Similar experiences of a long-ago past have been described in the Ramayana and the Mahabharata – two sacred Hindu books – as well as in the Old Testament in reference to Sodom and Gomorra.

One of the offered explanations throughout the years has been extraterrestrial arms experiment. To arrive at this conclusion, similar events that occurred in other parts of the planet in previous years were taken into consideration. Interestingly, it was later revealed that these same occurrences happened on the Moon and on Mars.

Political speculation, erroneous dates, extraterrestrial incursions...The Tunguska Enigma remains alive. With this fantastical study carried out by Antonio Las Heras, we can deal with the facts that clear up this mystery and draw conclusions on this Siberian mystery.

TARGETED AUDIENCE

- Orthodox scientists, experts in strange phenomena, and followers of the X Files.
- Those interested in climatic or geologic cataclysms that might have been caused by unknown superhuman beings.
- People fascinated by unsolved mysterious events that have repeated themselves during the course of time in different places on Earth and on other planets.

INTRODUCTION TO THE COLLECTION

Nowtilus "Frontier" is a thematic series made up by a group of authors specializing in serious investigative journalism that covers all that is destabilizing, strange, mysterious, or adventuresome.

The "Open Investigation" collection symbolizes the purest essence of journalism and reflects a response to the curiosity shown by many readers about certain topics of unquestionable social transcendence today. The product of the writing of the best team of reporters, this collection offers sound and controversial arguments so that the reader can formulate his/her own opinions and ideas about events beyond what the "true media" tell us.

Always at the forefront of their respective fields, the authors of "Open Investigation" bring together the results of years of arduous and valiant work, all documented in a way that is unrivalled in this field. The investigation is already under way.

SALES PITCH

- This is the first in-depth and up-to-date investigation of its kind in which all the possible hypotheses are presented and all those invalid ones are ruled out.
- The topic is addressed without biases and, at the same time, without skepticism.
- Never before has the relation between similar events from different places and times – including those recorded in sacred texts – been dealt with in such a study.
- This work offers a broad vision of all that happened in this mysterious event: Considers all the possible hypotheses since 1908 and addresses each one with detailed analysis.
- Demonstrates evidence about similar events that have happened on Mars and the Moon.
- Does not rule out hypotheses based on preconceived notions, but rather studies and evaluates each one with diverse and rational criteria.
- A work based on clear and precise events and one that goes beyond assumptions to establish historical linkages that, until now, had been ignored.
- Lays out in openly a truth that cannot be denied: the activity of intelligent other-worldly beings on Earth both today and in the past.
