Synopsis

Discover fourteen battles of great importance and singularity, in which crucial matters were decided, such as the fall of the last bastion of Christianity, the genesis of countries like Belgium and The Netherlands, Greece and Italy, the loss of the Peñón in Gibraltar, the defeats of the Chinese and Russian cavalries in the XIX and XX centuries, and the truth about the war between the Japanese and American navies during the Second World War.

From the occupation of Constantinople to the battles of Flanders, from the loss of Gibraltar and the victories in the Cuban war to the Second World War fights at the Norwegian fiords, the vibrant naval battles in the Pacific War during the Guadalcanal campaign and the famous Tokio Express.

Victor San Juan, an expert in this area of expertise, will take the reader around a different tour through naval history, while not getting into the typical battles, but instead, learning about those ones that for various reasons were set aside, but that are still very relevant.
