KRONOS

The most powerful weapon of the 3rd Reich

The most important secret project of Nazi Germany, led by an SS general, Dr. Hans Kammler. His research led him to develop time engineering, which helped him create a machine in 1944 that transported him to Ethiopia in the year 962. His objective was to obtain the Ark of the Covenant, which he transported back to 1944 to the beaches of Normandy before the famous D Day, or Operation Overlord.

Horst Bauer knows that his mission is extremely difficult, but his country expects the most from him and his men. After various operations in diverse historical periods, he is finally ordered to carry out a mission that could change the course of history. He must travel to Ethiopia before the year 1000, seize the Ark of the Covenant, and carry it to year 1944 and stop the invasion of Normandy. His team is helped by the commando groups of Otto Skorzeny, who are traveling towards France two weeks before the invasion and are preparing the defensive with the knowledge they have gained from what has passed. Now they only must wait...Time, as never before, is on their side.

The author

Felipe Botaya. Londres, 1953.

After having worked in well-known multinational companies in England and the Middle East, Felipe Botaya has been working for several years now as professor and conference speaker at various universities and business schools in both Spain and abroad. He is the author of various books dealing with business and companies.

His interest in little known historical topics related to World War II has pushed him to research secret Nazi projects from a different perspective. The result of said research has been the creation of two literary books for Ediciones Nowtilus: Operation Hagen: Antartica 1947, and, now, Kronos.
