All the answers to the questions that have always been made.

Did you know that Eastern philosophy is growing in popularity because we live in times of crisis? Is there a God or have we made him up? How can we distinguish the parascience from science? What did Descartes mean with his "I think, therefore I am"? Do we have a body or are we our body? Are we really free or freedom is an illusion? Can we educate emotions? Do we really need to live in society or would we be better off alone? Can peace last forever? Did you know that economists argue more about Philosophy than about Economy? Is there an objective beauty or anything can be beautiful in the eyes of somebody and ugly for somebody else?
