The conspiracy of Cordova

Cordova in 976, a period of maximum splendour in the Omeyyan dynasty. The caliph's personal commander wants to gain power that provokes the decline of the Islam in Andalusia.

The caliphate's secret service betrays Al-Hakan (the Caliph) to make his youngest son Abderramán III to become king.

In the night of the 1st of October in 976, a secret reunion takes place in the palace of the Great Vizier al-Mushaf which leads to a conspiracy. The colourful book "The Conspiracy of Cordova" guides us to the most cosmopolitan and splendid town in the Omeyyan world, the most brilliant decade in the western Islamic culture and the precursor of the subsequent European culture.

This novel brings us truly back to the culture, atmosphere, social life and the conspiracies at the court of Medina Al Zahara and Alcazar at the key moment when the Islam lost his protector, the caliph Al Hakam II.
