Synopsis

The most devastating bellicose conflict in the history of Spain lasted 3 years. In addition to the casualties of this war, Spain witnessed a period of intense political repression as well as a constant attack on its civil, religious, architectural, and artistic heritage. From the recently released documents from the Spanish Civil War, the authors of this work help give voice to those that were silenced many years ago.

Biography

Miquel Mir (Banyoles, 1955) is an archivist and researcher. Currently he is carrying out an extensive research project on the events caused by revolutionary violence and on the pillaging of religious and civil heritage during the Spanish Civil War. To do so, he is working with the classification of previously unseen documents from private archives, as well as documenting testimonials on the actions that were perpetuated in the Republican zones during the war. He is the author of the following books: Sentiments d'una vida (1978); Entre el roig i el negre: Una crònica de la Barcelona anarquista (2006); Entre el Roig i el negre: Una crònica de la revolució anarquista (2007); Diario de un pistolero anarquista (2008); Diari d'un pistolero de la FAI (2009); El preu de la traïció: and La FAI, Tarradellas i l'assassinat de 172 maristes (2010).

Mariano Santamaría (Santander, 1935) is member of the Marist Order and educator. He has carried out various investigations on the victims of religious persecution during the Civil War.
