Historical essay

Luis Íñigo Fernández

The narration of the forging of Spain from the first prehistoric inhabitants to Carlos II, and the decline of the Habsburgs, through the formation of the Spanish Empire, and its American adventure.

Synopsis

Beginning with Prehistory the passage through the Neolithic age is described, and also the three-age system, to finally reach the romanization of the Iberian Peninsula despite the great initial indigenous opposition. It describes the metallurgical exploitation, and the development of the agriculture, to arrive at the Arab invasion, and the later establishment of the Umayyad Caliphate in Cordoba. The narration of the Reconquest is approached from a socio-economic, and cultural point of view.

The american adventure led to the establishment of the Spanish Empire, but soon the decline will reach politics and economy Spain, but not in the artistic, as the cultural splendour would baptise this time as the Spanish Golden Age.
