

THE LOST NOVEL OF BORGES

NARRATIVA
NOWTILUS

Pablo Paniagua

This is a literary triple backflip, a kaleidoscopic novel that demystifies the works and figure of Jorge Luis Borges through the use of an irreverent tone.

Synopsis

Jorge Luis and Aurora, students of literature in their final year at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid, are witnesses to the murder of the famous historian, John Lehnigher, who, moments before, had announced in a magnificent conference the existence of a manuscript of an unfinished novel of Jorge Luis Borges.

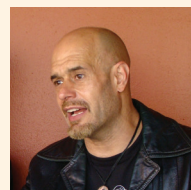

Aurora convinces Jorge Luis to follow the trail of the manuscript, and to do so, they have to travel to the city of Guanajato in Mexico.

There they two student will experience an adventure filled with uncertainty, suspicion, doubt, and betrayal.

Biography

Pablo Paniagua is a writer whose work is well known on the Internet. He is the pioneer behind the "blognovel", Exex: la mujer del bigote. Through the Publisher Literatura Indie (www.literaturaindie.mex.tl), he has published the following books: Exex, El Mono Cibernético, La novela perdida de Borges, and Palabras Fractales.

He is also known for his theoretic contributions to Fractal Literature, and for a series of iconoclastic texts that have appeared in various magazines.

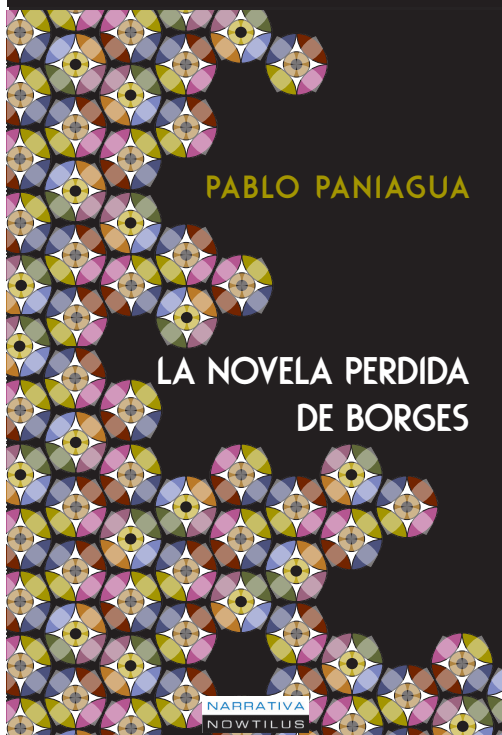

Sales pitch

-This book offers an original concept in which the figure and works of Borges are demystified and in which there is an attempt to explain why Borges was never able to finish writing one particular novel.

-The author imitates the literary style of Borges and adds a dose of irony and irreverence.

-The novel brings together a mixture of genres that allow the reader to assimilate and understand the works and literary style of Borges.
